

Webster Bank: Bank On Connecticut

Webster is investing in the communities it serves by joining a partnership called Bank On Connecticut to provide access to responsible financial products and services to people who do not currently use traditional financial institutions. The pilot program will provide an education in basic banking and the opportunity to open a bank account as an alternative to high-cost financial service providers. In conjunction with The Connecticut Association for Human Services (CAHS), Webster is initially launching its pilot efforts in Ansonia, Shelton, Milford and Derby, CT where more than 5% of households are “unbanked.” Participants will be eligible for no-fee Webster checking accounts and the opportunity to attend a Basic Banking Orientation class.
