This week the Financial Services Roundtable proudly presented TD Bank with the “Leadership in Financial Literacy” Award. Suzanne Poole, Executive Vice President, Retail Sales Strategy and Distribution, TD Bank, received the award on behalf of the TD Bank for completing 825 financial education projects, leading the industry in the third quarter of 2010.

“At TD Bank building strong communities where our employees, customers and other stakeholders live and work is a priority for us,” said Suzanne Poole, Executive Vice President, Retail Sales Strategy, TD Bank, “That’s why we’re committed to educating Americans about savings so they’re financially savvy.”

Congratulations TD Bank!
